PERU AND CHILI.

THE WAR.

New York, May 7.—A Lima letter to the Star and Herald of Panama says: "The first naval encounter of the Chilean and Peruvian forces took place April 14th off the mouth of the river Loea between the Peruvian wooden corvettes Union and Pico Mayo and the Chilean steam sloop Majalanes. The Majalanes after an engagement lasting over two hours, being a faster vessel than the opposing steamed away. No mention is made of the casualties. The Majalanes carries two 160-pounders and four 75-pounders, the Union twelve 70-pounders, the Pico Mayo two 70-pounders and four 40-pounders. The Chileans in Lima and Callao have been banished, they being suspected of communicating to their own government intelligence of the movement of the Peruvian troops.

Admiral Robell, commanding the Chilean blockading squadron, ordered the ships loading guano to leave within forty-eight hours, and later with guns destroyed the costly loading apparatus at the guano deposits, and seized the launched property of English subjects. It is imagined this procedure will give rise to complications, and protests from the diplomatic corps, in view of the interests of their country, are holding Peruvian securities guaranteed by this Guano.

United States Minister Christiani had arrived in Peru and would soon be formally received by the president. Minister Gibbs had presented his letter of recall.

NATIONAL LEGAL TENDERS.

Toronto, May 7.—At a mass meeting last night, resolutions were adopted strongly favoring the establishment of a national currency for the development of public works, such currency to be legal tender for all debts in the Dominion.

GREAT BRITAIN.

A MARRIAGE INNOVATION.

London, May 7.—In the house of lords, last night, the prince of Wales presented a petition signed by 328 farmers in favor of a bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister. The prince said he believed the measure would be of great advantage to the community at large, and he would support it.

Lord Houghton, liberal, moved a second reading of the bill.

The government, represented by Lord Cranbrook, strongly opposed it, and the second reading was defeated by a vote of 101 to 81. The Prince of Wales, Duke of Edinburgh and Bishop of Roper voted with the minority, and fourteen of the bishops with the majority.

In the house of commons, a declaratory resolution, by Furrer Herchall, liberal, in favor of abolishing action for breach of promise for marriage, except in case where actual pecuniary loss has been incurred by reason of the promise, was carried by a vote of 106 yeas to 65 nays. Solicitor General Sir Hastings Gifford opposed the resolution.

WASHINGTON.

To-day's Proceedings in Both Houses of Congress.

Gen. Chalmers's Statement Concerning the Fort Pillow Affair.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, May 7.—On motion of Mr. Ingalls a resolution was adopted calling on the president to communicate to the senate what measures had been taken to prevent the occupation of Indian Territory by white settlers. The house bill to prohibit military interference in elections was read twice, and by a vote of 24 against 81, the senate disagreed to the motion of Mr. Edmunds to refer it to the committee on judiciary and then laid it on the table to be called up hereafter. Consideration was then resumed of the resolution asking for authority to take testimony in the contested election case of Spofford against Kellogg, and Mr. Carpenter continued his remarks in support of Kellogg's right to the seat.

HOUSE.

Mr. Chalmers called up the resolution offered by him for an investigation into his conduct at Fort Pillow. He said his friends had pointed out to him the difficulties in the way of such an investigation and that he himself recognized the danger of rekindling flames of passion and prejudice which all good men desired to see covered up in their ashes, but it was a hard thing to ask soldiers who had lost all save honor to permit that also to be taken from them by a repetition of accusations that were utterly untrue. The action of the house yesterday had, however, satisfied him that the gentlemen were not willing now to go into an investigation, and therefore he had concluded to accept the advice of his friends and make his own statement. He then narrated the incidents of the attack on Fort Pillow, in which attack he had been early in the command of the confederate cavalry, but about 9 o'clock in the morning Gen. Forrest had arrived and taken command. He admitted that a number of the garrison making a rush for the gunboat had been fired at and killed, but if any had been killed in violation of the usages of war, the most searching examination on the part of the congressional committee had been unable to fix any responsibility for it. He denied that any wounded man had been burned up in the barracks that had been set on fire the morning after the capture of the fort. He asserted that forty percent of the garrison were saved wholly untouched. Part of the federal troops had run out of the fort, and nearly all of those killed or wounded, but a large number of the garrison, mostly white men, had remained and they had gathered around Gen. Forrest and himself for protection, and had been protected. As to the confederates taking advantage of the flag of truce in order to gain a better position, that statement was not true. He said so in vindication of his dead commander, for glory is the soldier's pride, the soldier's wealth is his honor.

The garrison numbered 5,627 men, of whom about 80 percent were saved. About 800 were killed and wounded and 250 were confederates.

Remarks were made by Garfield as to the impolicy of reopening the subject, with an intimation that the rebel officers were not so responsible as had at first been supposed, but the general impression at the time had been strengthened by an order issued about three weeks previously by Gen. Forrest that if the fort was surrendered the garrison should be treated as prisoners of war, but if the works were stormed no quarter might be expected. He was glad so much had been done by the gentleman from Mississippi to disconnect his name from any responsibility in the matter.

After a long and heated debate the whole subject was laid on the table.

Railroad Election.

Cleveland, May 7.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company, held in this city to-day, the following directors were elected: Wm. H. About $43,000,000 of stock were voted on.

Frightful Disaster in a Coal Mine at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 7.—At 11 o'clock last night an explosion of gas in Stanton shaft Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company, severely burned Martin Kerrigan. At midnight while the men were employed in brushing out the accumulations of gas in the lower vein came in contact with a blower, causing a terrific explosion. A large force of men were sweeping the tunnel at the time, and eight of them were badly burned, a majority of them thought fatally. The mine was set on fire, and soon 600 feet solid coal was burning furiously. To extinguish the flames the mine had to be flooded.

Washington, May 7.—On motion of Mr. Ingalls a resolution was adopted calling on the president to communicate to the senate what measures had been taken to prevent the occupation of Indian Territory by white settlers. The house bill to prohibit military interference in elections was read twice, and by a vote of 24 against 31, the senate disagreed to the motion of Mr. Edmunds to refer it to the committee on judiciary and then laid it on the table to be called up hereafter. Consideration was then resumed of the resolution asking for authority to take testimony in the contested election case of Spofford against Kellogg, and Mr. Carpenter continued his remarks in support of Kellogg's right to the seat.

HOUSE.

Mr. Chalmers called up the resolution offered by him for an investigation into his conduct at Fort Pillow. He said his friends had pointed out to him the difficulties in the way of such an investigation and that he himself recognized the danger of rekindling flames of passion and prejudice which all good men desired to see covered up in their ashes, but it was a hard thing to ask soldiers who had lost all save honor to permit that also to be taken from them by a repetition of accusations that were utterly untrue. The action of the house yesterday had, however, satisfied him that the gentlemen were not willing now to go into an investigation, and therefore he had concluded to accept the advice of his friends and make his own statement. He then narrated the incidents of the attack on Fort Pillow, in which attack he had been early in the command of the confederate cavalry, but about 9 o'clock in the morning Gen. Forrest had arrived and taken command. He admitted that a number of the garrison making a rush for the gunboat had been fired at and killed, but if any had been killed in violation of the usages of war, the most searching examination on the part of the congressional committee had been unable to fix any responsibility for it. He denied that any wounded men had been burned up in the barracks that had been set on fire the morning after the capture of the fort. He asserted that forty percent of the garrison were saved wholly untouched. Part of the federal troops had run out of the fort, and nearly all of those killed or wounded, but a large number of the garrison, mostly white men, had remained and they had gathered around Gen. Forrest and himself for protection, and had been protected. As to the confederates taking advantage of the flag of truce in order to gain a better position, that statement was not true. He said so in vindication of his dead commander, for glory is the soldier's pride, the soldier's wealth is his honor.

The garrison numbered 5,527 men, of whom about 30 percent were saved. About 300 were killed and wounded and 250 were confederates.

Remarks were made by Garfield as to the impolicy of reopening the subject, with an intimation that the rebel officers were not so responsible as had at first been supposed, but the general impression at the time had been strengthened by an order issued about three weeks previously by Gen. Forrest that if the fort was surrendered the garrison should be treated as prisoners of war, but if the works were stormed no quarter might be expected. He was glad so much had been done by the gentleman from Mississippi to disconnect his name from any responsibility in the matter.

After a long and heated debate the whole subject was laid on the table.

THE OLD STORY.

The Democrats Sweep the City. Electing All Candidates for City Offices but One and Six out of Nine Councilmen—The Correct Result in Each Ward—Current Gossip of the Election—The New Council, Etc.

The city election yesterday passed off very quietly. Nearly a full vote was polled, but there was no excitement about anything save the triangular contest for marshal, and the race for councilmen in the third, fifth and ninth wards. In all the other wards the vote for councilmen was one sided; and the result was known a few moments after the polls opened.

Although the saloons were all open, there was not much intoxication visible and good order was generally maintained. At the third ward polls there was a good sized crowd of pug niggers who were working in Ryan's interest but at the other polls there was little rowdiness displayed.

When the polls closed it was generally conceded that Breen in the third and Fry in the fifth, were defeated, although it was not supposed that the majorities against them were so large. Fry owes his defeat to the quarrel which has for so many years weakened the fifth ward democracy; Breen to over-confidence, lack of organization, and the determined and bitter opposition of the bumper element.

Last evening there were large crowds about the several polling places until the results were announced. The second ward board were the first to get through. They announced the vote about 8.30. Kelly carried the ward by a handsome majority, and when this became known his stock went up rapidly. The other wards reported slowly, and each return showed a close race between the three candidates. By 11 o'clock it became evident that Teghtmeyer was left in the race, and that the marshalship was between Diehl and Kelly.

Kelly was a little ahead, with the third, fourth and ninth wards to hear from. They all came in about the same time, two of them going for Teghtmeyer and one for Diehl, electing the latter. The republicans fairly yelled themselves hoarse over this unexpected victory. Of course Diehl was the hero of the hour, and he and his friends indulged in a general jollification.

The following table gives the official result:

If an engine meet an engine
Coming round a curve;
If they smash track, train and tender,
What do they deserve?
If an engine meet a steamer
Coming through the "draw,"
If they crush or drown the public,
Need we go to law?
If a steamer chase a steamer
Running up to time;
If they burst their pipes and boiler,
Where's the mighty crime?
If they maim or kill a body,
Or a body's wife;
Need a body sue a body
For baggage, limb or life?

The election boards are in session at City Hall this afternoon, canvassing the votes.

THE OLD STORY.

The Democrats Sweep the City.
Electing All Candidates for City Officers but One and Six out of Nine Councilmen—The Correct Result in Each Ward—Current Gossip of the Election—The New Council, Etc.

The city election yesterday passed off very quietly. Nearly a full vote was polled, but there was no excitement about anything save the triangular contest for marshal, and the race for councilmen in the third, fifth and ninth wards. In all the other wards the vote for councilmen was one sided; and the result was known a few moments after the polls opened.

Although the saloons were all open, there was not much intoxication visible and good order was generally maintained. At the third ward polls there was a good sized crowd of plug uglies who were working in Ryan's interest but at the other polls there was little rowdiness displayed.

When the polls closed it was generally conceded that Breen in the third and Fry in the fifth were defeated, although it was not supposed that the majorities against them were so large. Fry owes his defeat to the quarrel which has for so many years weakened the fifth ward democracy; Breen to over-confidence, lack of organization, and the determined and bitter opposition of the bummer element.

Last evening there were large crowds about the several polling places until the results were announced. The second ward board were the first to get through. They announced the vote about 8.30. Kelly carried the ward by a handsome majority, and when this became known his stock went up rapidly. The other wards reported slowly, and each return showed a close race between the three candidates. By 11 o'clock it became evident that Teghtmeyer was left in the race, and that the marshalship was between Diehl and Kelly.

Kelly was a little ahead, with the third, fourth and ninth wards to hear from. They all came in about the same time, two of them going for Teghtmeyer and one for Diehl, electing the latter. The republicans fairly yelled themselves hoarse over this unexpected victory. Of course Diehl was the hero of the hour, and he and his friends indulged in a general jollification. The following table gives the official result:
